Garbage rates go up

By CHRISTINE LEWIS

CAMPBELL homeowners and merchants can expect a 17.65 percent jump in refuse pickup rates effective April 1.

In near-empty council chambers, a three-member city council Monday night approved the request of Green Valley Disposal Company for a monthly rate increase for commercial and residential service.

Only two homeowners spoke in opposition. Councilmen Rusty Hammer and Ralph Doetsch were absent due to illness.

The company has maintained since first requesting the increase in late November that it is operating at a loss due to spiraling costs of labor and equipment.

The increase represents a 45 cent, or 17.65 percent jump for residential first-can service (from $2.55 to $3) and a 35 cent, or 21.88 percent, increase (from $1.60 to $1.95) for each additional can. The commercial increase is proportionate and does not include bin rental.

BUT THE approval was not without conditions. At the recommendation of City Manager Robert Stephens, the council directed that an independent auditing firm be hired by Green Valley for the next auditing period.

Stephens noted in a memo to the council that the present situation is "somewhat of a conflict," since Green Valley retains the CPA firm of Hubert Allen not only as an independent auditor but also as the company's negotiating officer.

Additionally, th council requested that a management consultant be hired to review Green Valley's operations with the goal of improving productivity.

Stephens cited specifically improved productivity of personnel and office procedures. "City Managers do not have expertise in this area," Stephens pointed out. "A one-time sharing of a performance audit of one company only might be very helpful."

Green Valley also services the cities of Los Gatos, Monte Sereno and Saratoga. All city managers have approved the performance audit concept with the exception of Monte Sereno, it was reported at the meeting.

Stephens requested that the cost of the audit be shared by the four cities and that the money come from the 10 percent franchise fees which are collected from Green Valley and go into each city's general fund.

Green Valley reported their labor costs have increased 6.34 percent since July 1977 and that equipment costs have gone up 30.45 percent.

The annual salary plus benefits of a refuse collector, effective January 1979, is $20,799.59, according to company charts. This compares with an annual salary of $10,436.40 in July 1971 and $18,569.81 in July 1977.

HUBERT ALLEN, the company's negotiating officer and independent auditor, reported that "costs have skyrocketed in the last two years."

He noted that the 17 percent increase was over a two-year period and that the company has not had a residential rate modification for two years or a commercial increase for three.

He warned further, "if fuel costs go up substantially, I can't predict what will happen."

John Christmas of Sobrato Avenue spoke in opposition to the increase and expressed his dissatisfaction with the service.

Another homeowner, JoAnne Fairbanks of Hacienda Avenue, called the service "sloppy and negligent." She complained that lids were left off, cans mishandled and the service was "limiting."

Councilman Bill Podgorsek moved to approve the increase, seconded by Vice Mayor Norm Paul. The measure passed with the added vote of Mayor Dean Chamberlin.

Fire chief named

McMullen top choice

THE APPOINTMENT of James F. McMullen as fire chief for the city of Campbell was approved Monday night by the city council.

McMullen takes over the reins of the Campbell Fire Department on April 9. In his $32,645 a year position, he will be responsible for a department with a $1.3 million yearly budget and 39 personnel which includes 37 fire safety employees.

He presently manages the Fire Prevention Division for the San Bernardino Fire Department where he serves as battalion chief and fire prevention engineer.

McMullen replaces Eugene Borden, who retired in January.

The 39-year-old administrator previously worked for the city of Campbell as a captain and fire prevention officer from April 1971 to June 1972.

McMullen has a B.A. degree in public administration from the University of Redlands. He is graduate of Los Angeles High School and has an A.A. degree in fire science from Mt. San Antonio College.

He is married and has one child.

Morton here for opening

Campbell Little League Alumnus

Craig Morton

DENVER Bronco star quarterback Craig Morton will be in Campbell on Saturday, April 21 for opening day of the Campbell Little League.

1979 marks the 25th anniversary of the league and a special celebration is planned this year starting at 10 a.m. at the Hamilton Avenue field.

Morton got his start in athletics that first year (1954) playing on a team sponsored by the Stamp Association for the Campbell Little League.

City records will settle state 'bail-out' question

EARLY LAST week the state controller's office sent out an announcement that Campbell was slated to receive $275,754 in state "bail-out" funds for last year. A follow-up letter to the city later in the week reduced that figure to $63,972.13. But Campbell expects a third amount: $113,972.

City Finance Director Jeff Whittaker explained the difference.

From the original quarter of a million dollars pegged as Campbell's share of the state funding, a percentage of the city's general reserves of $1 million had to be deducted to arrive at net state funding. Campbell has traditionally kept $150,000 in reserves as a matter of policy and mandated reserves are not to be included in making deductions from the state grant. But state officials require proof that cities have maintained those reserves over a period of years before they'll allocate the additional funds.

When the city's prior year budgets are submitted to the state, Whittaker expects Campbell to receive an additional $50,000 bringing the total to $113,000.

Update

Councilman hospitalized

COUNCILMAN HOSPITALIZED

Campbell City Councilman Ralph Doetsch remains hospitalized at Los Gatos Community Hospital after suffering a mild heart attack early last week.

According to his wife, Lorraine, the city official is doing well and is expected to be released later this week and be able to resume his council duties in early April.

Claim filed in child's death

The family of a kindergarten student at San Tomas School, who died last November 2 after being struck by a car on Pollard Road, has filed a claim against Campbell for $1 million plus general damages. A similar claim has been filed against the Campbell Union School District.

Among charges made in the claim filed by Linda Hammen and her son, Jay, is that the city failed to provide crosswalk guards at the Harriet Avenue-Pollard Road intersection, failed to post adequate notices of safe speed limits, to mark crosswalks and to provide traffic signals and controls.

Cole Hammen died of massive head injuries shortly after the accident. The driver of the car was not cited. According to police reports the child, who was walking to school with his older brother, ran out into the street in front of the car.

The claim also cites failure to provide "adequate bus transportation" as one of the causes of the accident.

Meeting on old grammar school

Architect Harold Major, an architect with Preservation Group, a San Francisco firm that restores historic buildings, will speak at the Monday, March 19 meeting of the Grammar School Task Force.

That city group is studying future use of the old Campbell Grammar School at the corner of Campbell Avenue and Winchester. Earlier this month the city's bid to have the vacant school site listed on the National Register of Historic Places hit a snag when the Campbell elementary school district (the property owners) contested the designation being considered by a state agency and noted that their letter of objection hadn't been received by the state group. A decision was continued to the next meeting in May.

The Task Force meets at 7:30 p.m. in the employee lounge at City Hall, 75 N. Central Ave. Members will also discuss possible alternative methods of financing acquisition and-or renovation of the building and grounds.

Should Campbell high be closed?

The possible future closing of Campbell or Westmont high schools will be discussed at a public meeting this Tuesday, March 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Campbell High School, 1 W. Campbell Ave.

The local schools are among the eight Campbell Union High School district campuses being eyed for closure in June of 1980. District officials estimate one or two school sites will have to be closed at that time because of the drop in school enrollment.

The final, of four meetings planned by the district to find out how the community feels about the closures, is set for Tuesday, April 3 at Branham High School. At that 7:30 p.m. meeting Branham and Leigh high schools will be discussed.

Hospital plans move ahead

The new Pain Center is now operating at O'Connor Hospital at Campbell, 1680 Winchester Blvd., and plans call for a new emergency room and outpatient surgery department to be operating on April 2.

The San Jose hospital purchased the local 48-bed facility last year after financial and personnel problems brought about the closing of Campbell Community Hospital.

A grand opening at the new O'Connor facility in Campbell, including a tour of the Pain Center which treats victims of chronic, intractable pain, has been set for April 17.

Dirty school pool sparks closing--again

By MARK BOSNEAG

THE swimming pool at Campbell High School has been cleaned of the diatamacious earth which backwashed into it three months ago. The cleaning came after the Santa Clara Health Department ordered the pool closed.

Although the thin layer of scum which settled at the pool's bottom did not pose a health hazard to the students swimming in it, county sanitarian Bill Garland said he tried unsuccessfully for three months to get the school district to clean the pool before finally ordering it closed February 27.

The pool was cleaned in two days and classes were resumed.

THE PROBLEM apparently started in early December after a power shortage hit the Campbell area, causing the pool's filtering system to shut off, according to Campbell High swimming coach Mike DiGrazia. When the power returned and a school custodian reactivated the filtering system, the diatamacious earth backwashed into the pool from the filters, DiGrazia said.

Diatmacious earth is actually a number of tiny seashells which are taken from the oceans and are used in the filtering system of the 30-year-old pool.

After receiving a Campbell citizen's anonymous complaint about the dirty pool, sanitarian Garland visited it December 5 and ordered the school district to clean it. Garland said he then made three return trips to the pool in the next three months, but saw no improvement in its condition.

On February 27, Garland made a fifth trip to the pool and, seeing that the pool's condition was unchanged, ordered the pool closed.

CLASSES IN the pool were cancelled that afternoon and the next morning while maintenance men vacuumed the scum out of the pool. Classes resumed the next afternoon after the job was completed.

DiGrazia blamed the failure to clean the pool on the antiquated equipment being used, saying it wasn't strong enough to pick up the diatamacious earth.

"We were vacuuming the pool two hours a day, but the old equipment the district has just wasn't doing the job," DiGrazia said. "The day it was closed one of my students brought a vacuum sweeper from his pool at home, and it cleaned it up right away."

Carl Cull, district maintenance supervisor, said there is nothing wrong with the district's equipment, however, and placed the blame on the students who are hired to sweep the pool daily.

"They use the same equipment at Campbell as they do at the other schools in the district, and we haven't had this problem anywhere else," Cull said. "I think maybe the kids that are sweeping the pool aren't doing the job."

DiGRAZIA defended his student workers. "The problem is in the equipment. The students have nothing to do with that. As soon as my student brought the equipment from home, the problem was taken care of."

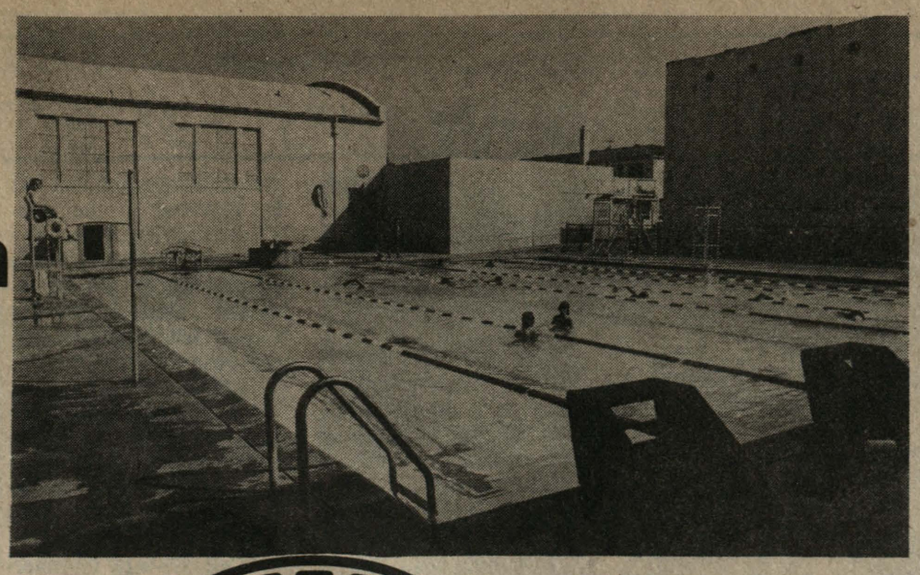
Garland said he felt the problem in getting the pool clean was a combination of "faulty equipment and poor maintenance."

He said the diatamacious earth which settled on the bottom of the pool was not a health hazard, "except perhaps for the problem of not being able to see the bottom of the pool because of the dirt.

"But mostly it was an aesthetic thing," he said. "It's no fun to swim in a pool that looks dirty, but chemically diatamacious earth is not harmful."

Cull said small amounts of diatamacious earth settle in the pool each time the filters are cleaned, which occurs once every two weeks.

He said the diatamacious earth should be cleaned up with the daily vacuuming of the pool, and that he doesn't expect it to build up again as it recently did.



THE LANE markers at the bottom of the Campbell High School can be seen once again after having been covered for three months with diatamacious earth which backwashed from the pool's filtering system.

It's time for the wearin' of the green

By BEA RENE

Sure 'n begorra, it's that time of year again . . . the "wearing of the green" will be very much in evidence, as well as the aroma of corned beef and cabbage wafting through the lounges and dining rooms of the smallest to the most elegant restaurant. Rinky-tink pianos will be repeating "Danny Boy" over and over to enthusiastic singers fortified by steaming Irish coffees. St. Patrick's Day is always a wild day here on the Peninsula — seems that all the O'Tooles, O'Malleys, Harrigans, Finnigans, Maloneys, Houlihans and Flangans have migrated to this popular restaurant haven and you can be certain to find a convenient spot to enjoy your St. Patrick's Day lunch or dinner.

Maloney's in Atherton will be open for lunch from 11:30-3 p.m. and dinner from 5:30-11 p.m., serving Irish cheer and traditional Irish dishes. Reservations are definitely advised! . . . The Black Oak in Palo Alto is celebrating with the music of the Irish Coachmen, serving corned beef and cabbage dinner for $5.95 and Irish coffee for $1.00 (dinner served 4-11 p.m.) . . . H.M.S. Endeavour, Cupertino will celebrate on Friday with corned beef and cabbage and "green" beer, no less. J Patrick's Irish Pub (adjoining Hugo's Market in Rickey's Hyatt House) will celebrate both Friday and Saturday, the 16th and 17th, with special $1.25 Irish Coffee and other Irish specialties . . . Since St. pat's falls on a Saturday, there are fewer restaurants from which to choose — but here's a few.

Dr. and Mrs. Danielson were particularly impressed with the fine dinner and the tuxedoed waiters (and tuxedoed waitresses) at The Black Oak in Palo Alto. Here's a scoop: "Mary Lou & Paul" will be starting here on Friday, March 23 — look for them . . . Sisters Adele and Geneva Johnson enjoyed lunching at The Black Kettle in Danville, as guests of Mrs. Mildred Lynch, whose family home formerly stood on the very site of this popular restaurant. Of course, the same cuisine and decor is found at Campbell's Black Kettle in The Factory . . . Congressman Pete McCloskey recently dined at La Tour in Palo Alto, where he was guest speaker . . . The National Smooth Dancers give Monday night dance classes (for you people with two left feet) — classes start at 8 p.m., featuring the fox trot and samba throughout March. In April, they'll teach the tango. Call Charlene Longaker, 739-9462 to join (couples only) . . .

Menu Code Breakers: Dim Sum (Chin.) — Steamed Dumplings filled with seafood or meat, sweet paste or preserves. Finnan Haddie (Eng.) — Haddock cooked in milk with peppercorn and onion rings.

KPEN-FM's new owner, Frank DeSmidt reported he enjoyed a great dinner at Calamity Jane's in Milpitas — here's one to check out!

Mail in any dining, entertainment or travel news — as space permits, will include it in my weekly column, now appearing in 17 Meredith Sun Newspapers.

MEMBERS OF a new modern dance company in Santa Clara, Janet Shaw, Sue Morton and Cynthia Harrison, perform a routine titled "Circles in the Sun." The Janlyn Dance Company, located at 2905 Park Ave., is under the direction of University of Santa Clara dance instructor Janet Lynn Shaw and will be performing next month in events sponsored by the city of San Jose.

You can tour a winery close to home

By MARY LESTER

IT'S GETTING to be that time of the year again when people interested in wines, wineries and vineyards cease to merely think about visiting the grape growing areas of California but actually get set to go see for themselves. There are now some 150 wineries to visit complete with tasting rooms and sometimes even a vineyard alongside.

All it takes is a little planning ahead like checking the days and hours the winery is open so you haven't used precious gas mileage to only find a closed door. Best of all, you don't have to drive very far these days to go a-winerying. So many new ones have sprung up and old ones opened tasting rooms. I hereby proffer the names of a few whose welcoming mats you might not have previously crossed.

First off — anyone on the road to or from Yosemite should pause at the Franzia Brothers Winery tasting room in Ripon, Hy. 120. It's a most hospitable room with just about anything you want to taste or buy — including some soft drinks and crackers.

For a day's sampling-touring and educating, the wineries of Hecker Pass in Gilroy can't be beat. There are five within one mile on the odometer and another merely a few miles further. Directions: in downtown Gilroy turn on First street, continue, and four miles from town is Bertero's Winery where you can even buy fresh garlic! Across the road stands Live Oaks Winery with tasting room host-owner, Peter Scagliotti. Then, a few bicycle pedals away is Thomas Kruse Winery (the German descendent among the Italians) and across the street is both Hecker Pass Winery and Fortino's. The latter two are owned and operated by winemaker brothers who decided they did best independently.

YOU CAN reach Kirigin Winery, a bit of old Eastern Europe, via Watsonville Rd. or Hecker Pass, and right in San Martin is the lively tasting room of San Martin Vineyards.

In all of the state, I still maintain that probably, the finest winery to visit for the entire family is Italian Swiss Colony in Asti. In Sonoma county, ISC is just off Hy. 101 about 25 miles north of Santa Rosa. Tours are optional and there are two tasting rooms, a deli, areas for picnicking and a Swiss village park scene for showing the youngsters around.

Somewhat off the wine-traveled path but convenient for anyone doing the Los Gatos-Saratoga bit, Paul Masson has an excellent do-it-yourself tour and an open-house atmosphere tasting room.

Napa is loaded with wineries whose products are available to taste.

During the past four years, many more wineries in Sonoma have tasting rooms. Geyser Peak on Hy. 101 is unusual and worth a stop.

Green bull, horse to greet bar patrons on St. Pat's day

By SUE BEVING

AT THEIR ranch in San Jose's east foothills, members of the Roddy family will be dyeing a bull and horse green this week to take down to their Boots and Saddle bar on Alum Rock Avenue for St. Patrick's Day.

Jim Roddy, 27, who now owns the bar, has ordered 300 pounds of corned beef and 140 loaves of bread for sandwiches that will be given away at the bar in the round, which usually draws retired persons and working men during its 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. hours. His wife, Debbi, and friends will spend the day making the sandwiches. Last year the number totaled 1,200.

"IT'S GOING to be a rough one for crowds with St. Patrick's Day falling on a Saturday," says Jim.

Jim and his brother, Jack, of rodeo fame, are two of four children of patriarch John Roddy, who owns the thousand acre ranch and by his son Jim's estimate has operated about 35 bars.

A native of Ireland, Roddy, 72, came to the United States in 1926 and bought his first bar in San Francisco for $250 following Prohibition. At one time Roddy owned what was billed as the longest bar in the world, covering a city block. It also reputedly featured the world's longest and shortest bartenders. A longtime fan of St. Patrick's day, Roddy served as president of the Hibernians in San Francisco and San Jose.

JOHN RODDY, wearing his cattleman's hat, has no trouble capturing Pal's interest with a handful of oats. Pal is a registered quarter horse.

Photography by Joan Gielow

HE DID well in the bar business. In San Francisco his bars surrounded one street intersection.

When World War II arrived, the elder Roddy bought the ranch in San Jose, and the Boots and Saddle bar in 1952. Another bar, operated by Jack Roddy on Keyes Street, has been sold.

Jim is the youngest Roddy son. He raises cattle, works the bar and teaches kids to "bull dog" or wrestle steers. For the last three years, he has been runner-up in the California steer wrestling championship. His students last week included David Salois, son of firefighter Jack Salois, who has headed the countywide firefighter's rodeo. David participates in junior rodeos.

THE STEERS Jim uses in bull-dogging are brought in from Mexico, where they derive from fighting bulls. He likes them because their horns are long while the steers are lean.

As the students, who ranged from teenagers to adults, struggled at pinning steers to the ground, dogs and a cat ran after Frisbees in the corral, and a driver's training car inched down the hillside road on the edge of the ranch.

Jim claims that his dad put on the first rodeo at the World's Fair in San Francisco. "Dad was always interested in cowboys and ranches," he says.

Brother Jack, 43, was twice the world's champion in steer wrestling. Jack, who lived down the hill, left San Jose five months ago to move to the Livermore area. Previously he had leased the 55,000 acre Kaiser-Aetna ranch in Pacheco Pass, flying there each day from the Reid-Hillview airport. In a glamorous note, members of the Roddy family ran cattle on the property with Hearst Corp. officials.

We have had a constant hassle with our new G.M. car since the day it was purchased. Under the terms of the warranty, the transmission was repaired (severe leaks) four times at no charge to us — it still leaks and the warranty is up. We are told that we will now have to pay for the repairs even though the problem existed under the warranty. We are older folks and this was to be our last car. How can G.M. be pushed into doing what's right?

Mrs. D.V. Mole,
Santa Clara

You have several routes of recourse, depending on which way you want to go.

Your car was tied up (out of service) for almost three months for the multiple transmission repairs. By law, the warranty expressed by the manufacturer is extended for the additional time the car is in for repairs. You are still covered.

It's too bad the dealer or zone representative didn't inform you of your rights, although it's to their business (dollar) advantage not to do so.

Your second route (should you choose) is to go for recision of sale on the vehicle using the Magnusson Moss Act. Your documentation of an unresolved problem with this new vehicle is more than enough to get all of your money back, taxes also, on the sale. You might, at the dealer's option, trade on an even basis for a new car.

Route three would be an arbitration process set up by General Motors whereby Bay Area owners of G.M. vehicles can take their complaints to a third party for resolution.

Now the bad news. The program will be administered through the Better Business Bureau and, judging from their track record on things technical, they may not be the best equipped to perform this function. Strangely enough, the arbitration process will be binding on G.M. but not the consumer, so the court process can be involved if the car complainant feels that the decision was improper.

I have a 1976 Volvo and in addition to the other problems with it, sometimes when I gas up the car and remove the filler cap, about a half-gallon of gas will surge out onto the ground. The dealer (service manager) says that a new tank will correct the problem at a cost of $85 labor and $240 for the tank. How could a new tank correct this problem and why won't the factory help with an obvious product liability?

Ms. Arlene Davis

Don't accept the offer. If the new tank is equipped with a modified pressure control valve, it will correct the problem but the factory will shortly be issuing recall notices for correction at no cost to you and no tank replacement required.

There are about 60,000 late 1975 and all 1976 Volvo 240 and 260 model cars that have this fuel dumping problem. Wait out your recall notice and bleed the excessive pressure out of the tank by removing the cap slowly and, of course, don't smoke when tanking up.

You can be surprised at what you don't know and equally surprised at what you can know about your rights as a consumer. Gain some muscle by arranging for a Consumers United speaker for your club, fraternal organization, group or class. Call or write us.

Dons, Buccaneers in search of wins

By DAVE MENDONCA

THE DEL MAR Dons are looking for a tournament championship and the Campbell Buccaneers are looking for their first win of the pre-season as the two teams head into local baseball action this week.

The Dons, despite absorbing their first loss of the season last week to Samuel Ayer, will take a one game lead into the final two games of the Menlo-Atherton high.

The Bucs, meanwhile, will be out to post their first win of the season Friday afternoon at home when they host the Wilcox Warriors in a 3 p.m. contest.

Del Mar will take a 3-1 tournament record into action Saturday morning when the Dons battle host M-A (1-3) at 11:30 a.m. at Flood Park.

The Dons will then face Gunn (2-2) at 2:30 p.m. at Menlo-Atherton high school in their tournament finale.

Del Mar took a big step towards the tournament title last week when it nudged Gunn 6-5 in eight innings.

Rich Riehl opened up the Del Mar eighth by being hit by a pitch, stole second and proceeded to third when the catcher's throw sailed into center.

GUNN ISSUED intentional walks to Scott Levander and Mario Ramirez to load the bases. But the strategy backfired when Scott McAdams bounced a grounder to shortstop and Riehl beat the play at the plate.

Tom Bell, who came on in relief in the seventh, notched the win, his second of the season.

Del Mar had forced the game into extra innings with a three run rally in the sixth. Sean Venenzia's lead-off double ignited the rally. Ramirez contributed a run scoring single and then two Gunn errors led to two unearned runs, tying the game at 5-5.

Del Mar's win streak ended at three a couple of days later when it dropped a 1-0 decision to Samuel Ayer.

Bell, who has yet to allow an unearned run in 16 innings of work this season, suffered the tough loss despite allowing just two hits and three walks in seven innings. He fanned six.

Craig Richesin was two for two and drew a walk to account for most of Del Mar's offense on the day. Ramirez and Darryl Zweigle had the Dons' only other hits.

In a 12 inning scrimmage with Gunderson last Saturday, the Dons suffered a 2-1 seven inning loss and a 4-2 five inning defeat.

IN BOTH losses, neither of which count on Del Mar's record, the Dons were no-hit until the final inning.

Despite the loss to Ayer and the two scrimmage losses to Gunderson, Del Mar head coach Gary Cunningham found plenty to be pleased about in the Dons' performances last week.

"We are playing good ball," Cunningham said. "We're getting good pitching and defense right now and that's a good foundation to build on. I'm sure our hitting will come around."

After six games (including the two scrimmages) the Dons were only hitting .199 as a team.

Richesin, Zweigle and Ramirez are the Dons' top hitters with identical .333 batting marks.

Campbell high, meanwhile, opened its season last Tuesday with a 6-3 loss to Soquel.

The Bucs led 3-0 heading into the bottom of the third but eventually wound up giving the game away with three costly errors.

Quinton Failing took the loss in relief of starter Joe Jones.

JONES AND Jeff Melrose pulled off a double steal in the second inning to put Campbell on the scoreboard first. And in the third, a Soquel error and a sacrifice fly to left by Jones accounted for the Bucs' final two runs of the game.

Campbell's only two hits in the game came in the fourth inning when Melrose and Dan Romeo lashed back-to-back singles.

The Bucs then dropped a 4-3 decision to unbeaten Oak Grove last Friday afternoon at Campbell to lower their pre-season record to 0-2.

Oak Grove snapped a 2-2 tie in the seventh with a two run rally and then weathered a comeback bid by the Bucs in the bottom of the seventh.

Al Saldivar opened the Buccaneer seventh with a walk, moved to second on a passed ball and scored on a single to center by Bruce Bjerke.

Paul Sargis absorbed the loss in relief of Melrose, who pitched very well for five innings. Melrose allowed just two runs (one earned) and five hits, walking none and striking out two.

Samuels claims MVP award in basketball

FOR THE PAST three years Branham Bruins standout Roger Samuels was among the West Valley Athletic League's leading scorers in basketball.

But more than being just a scorer, Samuels was also an intricate part of the Bruin defense, helping Branham to dominate the boards with his ferocious rebounding the past three years.

And it was because of this two-way ability that Samuels earned the WVAL's Most Valuable Player award recently at the annual all-league meeting.

Samuels, who led the Bruins to their first ever WVAL championship this past season, was the lone Bruin selected to the all-league first team.

Rounding out the all-WVAL first team were Tye Ferdinandsen of Blackford, Alan Elliott of Westmont, Eric Johnson of Leigh and Tom Bell of Del Mar.

A pair of Camden Cougars, Dan Freeman and Dale Harris, headed the second team picks. Others landing second team berths were Joe Hash of Branham, Tim Fluery of Prospect and Mike Larsen of Westmont.

Honorable mention plaudits went to Jim Quilici and Kurt Weltz of Del Mar; Kent Cooper and Greg Kolte of Los Gatos; Chris Clark and Artie Day of Westmont; Joel Ferdinandsen of Blackford; and Frank Cabri of Leigh.
